

CATERING GUIDE FOR TUCKSHOPS

YOUR GUIDE TO PROVIDING HEALTHY
CATERING FOR SCHOOL EVENTS.

The Queensland Association of School Tuckshops' Catering Guide provides inspiration and healthy ideas on how tuckshops can cater for events within their school community, including:

- Staff development days, workshops, and meetings
- Official events, such as program launches, awards nights, and graduations
- Open nights/days (e.g. Welcome to Prep BBQ)
- School community events, such as P&C/P&F functions.

Providing healthy catering at these events is a fantastic way to promote health and wellbeing in your school and to support staff, parents, and students to make healthy choices. It can also be a great way to attract new volunteers who are keen to contribute to the health and wellbeing of the school.

Key factors to consider

When it comes to organising catering, ensure you factor in the following:

Budget and time

Specific requirements for health, cultural and dietary requirements

Food safety

We also highly recommend that you are realistic about what you can achieve. Don't bite off more than you can chew.

Budget and time

Consider the time you will spend planning and preparing for each event and factor this into your cost per head, while also allowing for a profit (if required).

Plan a menu that meets the needs of your customer, but that is also achievable and realistic.

Allergens

Tuckshop staff need to be familiar with the foods and ingredients that may cause an allergic reaction.

We encourage tuckshop staff to complete the relevant Allergen training through the National Allergy Council.

Dietary requirements

If dietary requirements are not known, ensure you have a range of options, including vegetarian and gluten-free options.

Ensure these items are separated from the rest of the food and are easily identifiable.

Food safety

All food service and catering facilities are required to fulfil their regulatory responsibilities for food supply under the Food Act 2008 and Food Regulations 2009.

Always supply tongs and other serving utensils with catering. Ensure hot food is kept hot (above 60°C) and cold food is kept cold (below 5°C).

We encourage tuckshop staff to complete our free Food Handlers Course.

Quantities

When catering for an event you need to make sure there is enough food, so people are satisfied. However, you also need to avoid too much wastage, particularly if the items do not have a long shelf life and you are on a tight budget.

The amount of food you need will depend on a number of factors such as:

- The demographics of the group
- The size of the items offered
- Time and length of the event
- The type of catering (e.g. morning or afternoon tea, lunch, or main meal).

As a general guide, aim to provide the following for each person:

- One sandwich or wrap
- One cup green leafy/raw salad vegetables, or a half cup of cooked vegetables
- One medium piece of fruit (such as apple, banana, pear), two small pieces (plum, kiwifruit) or a cup of diced or canned fruit
- 40 g cheese (two slices).

Costing

Catering costs depend on the client's choice of menu and service, including special requests and additional items.

If the client specifies the budget, it is important to cost up your menu options to consider how much profit you will make. Make a detailed ingredient list with quantities and add up how much the food will cost you. Be sure to include costs for packaging, napkins and required cutlery.

Then, factor in the time it will take you to prepare the food. Make sure you include the time for delivery, setting up, packing up, and cleaning.

For more detailed instructions on how to mark-up your menu items, we recommend completing our Pathway to Profit course.

Record Keeping

It's important to keep records of functions you provide catering for. This provides you with a reference for any re-occurring events, and will guide you on costings. Ensure you record quantities, menus, cost and the outcome (i.e. too much, or too little food).

BBQs

IDEAS AND INSPIRATION

A barbeque is a quintessential Australian experience, and often a great fundraiser.

Why not appeal to an audience looking for something more than a snag on a piece of bread and offer some healthier items?

Or up-sell to make it a complete meal?

Here are our top tips to green-up your next BBQ event:

- If you are sticking with snags, choose a reduced-fat option, and opt for whole meal/wholegrain bread.
- Offer a burger option...think grilled chicken or lean beef. This opens your options for adding vegetables and you can attach a higher price tag.
- Add some vegetarian options to the mix, like corn on the cob and fruit and veggie skewers.
- Add side salads – coleslaw and a tomato salsa are some great options.
